

Mark Truslove

SUMMER

Crickets chirp
And the sound travels in wide, silent air:

Sometimes momentarily
You can hear the land
Holding its breath Waiting

Like times I've watched you sleeping
Not daring to reach out and touch