

Ray Liversidge

THE AESTHETICS OF DISAPPEARANCE

"All was uncertainty and conjecture in this region of magic."

Edward John Eyre

leaving bitumen is like forgetting words of a favourite song or lines of a familiar poem off the road my mind deconstructs the clutter of creature comforts and sings into existence a foreign landscape of spinifex sand and gibbers

